BALKAN NATIONS NEAR WAR OVER BORDER CRISIS

Note Demands Reopening Of Question Concerning Vilna's Ownership

SOLDIER SHOT DOWN

Newspapers Demand Action; Commander On Scene

WARSAW, Poland, March 18 — (UP) — The war fever in Poland reached its peak today at a huge mass meeting in the main square of Vilna, where the crowds shouted for invasion of Lithuania.

Despite credible reports that Lithuanian would accede to the Polish ultimatum and seek negotiations, the mass meeting passed a resolution demanding "elimination of Lithuania."

WARSAW, Poland, March 18 — (UP) — Polish officials, prepared to back with military force an ultimatum to Lithuania, expressed confidence today that Lithuania would meet the Polish demands and the incident would be settled without war.

There was no doubt that Poland meant business. It was emphasized by the arrival at Vilna, near the Lithuanian frontier, of Marshal Edward Rydz-Smigly, Poland's leader and inspector general of the army.

The attitude of the country was reflected in such incidents as the appearance of the newspaper Wlaczor Warszawski with headlines reading "The Frontiers are Artificially Closed; The Doors Will Be Opened by Force."

Polish Guard Killed

The ultimatum arose over a border incident in which a Polish guard was killed. It demanded satisfaction and reopening of the question whether Vilna really is the Lithuanian capital or belongs to Poland.

A meeting of the Polish senate was called for next Wednesday, by which time the government expected the incident to be settled.

In London, the British government was reported to have made urgent representations to Poland and Lithuania to avoid strife. Paris and Berlin did likewise.

Excitement in Vilna was intense. Banners carrying such slogans as: "Let Us March on Kovno." "We Demand Mobilization."

The banners carried death's heads painted in white. It seemed that almost the entire population of 200,000 in Vilna was in the streets, marching in co-

Powers Watch New Balkan Crisis

In London

LONDON, March 18 — (UP) — Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons today that he understood Poland's ultimatum to Lithuania contained a 36-hour time limit.

Chamberlain said he understood that the ultimatum contained conditions which the Polish government considered indispensable for avoidance of future incidents and added:

"His majesty's government has expressed the hope that this opportunity will not be used for making wider demands."

The government, Chamberlain

In Paris

PARIS, March 18 — (UP) — Lithuania was reported today to have used French diplomatic channels to offer Poland full assurances of her willingness to hold diplomatic discussions to settle the dispute which caused the Polish government to send an ultimatum to Lithuania.

Petrus Kilmas, Lithuanian minister here, was reported to have informed Jules Lukasiewicz, Polish ambassador, that Lithuania was prepared to make concessions in order to insure a peaceable settlement.

It was understood that a French representative was asked to be present during any further discussions, in order to ease tension.

In Berlin

BERLIN, March 18 — (UP) — Germany and Italy have urged Poland to effect a peaceful solution of her dispute with Lithuania so as not to disturb the equilibrium of Europe, it was understood today.

Newspapers gave little attention to the crisis, and there was no editorial comment. The headline used by the Voelkischer Beobachter, Nazi party organ, was "Subsiding Alarm in Poland."

Despite the lack of attention by newspapers, well informed quarters said that the government was in no way disinterested in the situation. The antagonists are Germany's neighbors and also the Memel territory, which Lithuania controls, and is mentioned by Polish nationalists as a desirable territory for Poland — contains one of those German populations in which the Reich regards itself as having a protective interest.

FATE OF T. V. A. MAY DEPEND ON FRIDAY CONFAB

President Meets Three Directors Again To Hear Quarrel

CHAIRMAN IS DEFIANT

Roosevelt May Request Morgan To Quit

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(UP)—President Roosevelt confers again today with the three directors of the Tennessee Valley authority in a final effort to settle their two-year-old feud. It will be his second attempt to "get the facts" of a quarrel that has split the directorate and virtually assured a congressional investigation of the New Deal's vast power and regional planning project.

A week ago Mr. Roosevelt talked with the directors for seven hours and, failing to agree on a solution, advised them to compose their differences or resign. He gave them until today to gather more material to support their charges and counter-charges.

Congress has held up consideration of three resolutions for investigation of the T. V. A. pending the outcome of today's meeting. But observers believed that it would produce little more than last week's conference.

Morgan Defiant

T. V. A. Chairman Arthur E. Morgan defied the President then, refusing to present facts that would support his charges against his co-directors, Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal. He told the President that his inquiry was a waste of time and that he considered a congressional inquiry the only logical place to present his evidence.

Harcourt Morgan and Lilienthal presented many documents supporting their charges that Chairman Morgan had pursued an "obstructionist" and "rule or ruin" policy.

It was believed that if Chairman Morgan again defies the President that he will be asked to resign. He has refused so far to resign despite demands from such congressmen as Sen. George W. Norris, I., Neb., "father" of the T. V. A.

Congressional leaders said they planned to go ahead with plans for a congressional investigation if a "satisfactory solution" of the T. V. A. situation is not reached at the White House today.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D. Ky., vigorously denied reports that he might become chairman of the joint congressional committee if one is created to investigate T. V. A.

CHEF'S KNIFE ONCE CARVED FOR WILHELM

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (UP).—The knife that carved Kaiser Wilhelm's meat more than 20 years ago now serves the same purpose for diners at a hotel here.

Now the property of Leo Hillenback, hotel chef, the knife, still keen-edged, once was used by Hillenback's father, when he was chef for the former German emperor in Berlin.

Hillenback merrily singing "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen" as he trimmed bits of beef for hotel guests, said he wouldn't trade the knife "for a pot of gold."

"I guess I've cut near to 200,000 pounds of meat with it," said Leo. "The blade's getting a little thin, but she's still good for many a day."

He was 18 when he began hearing tales of America. He told his father he wanted to go.

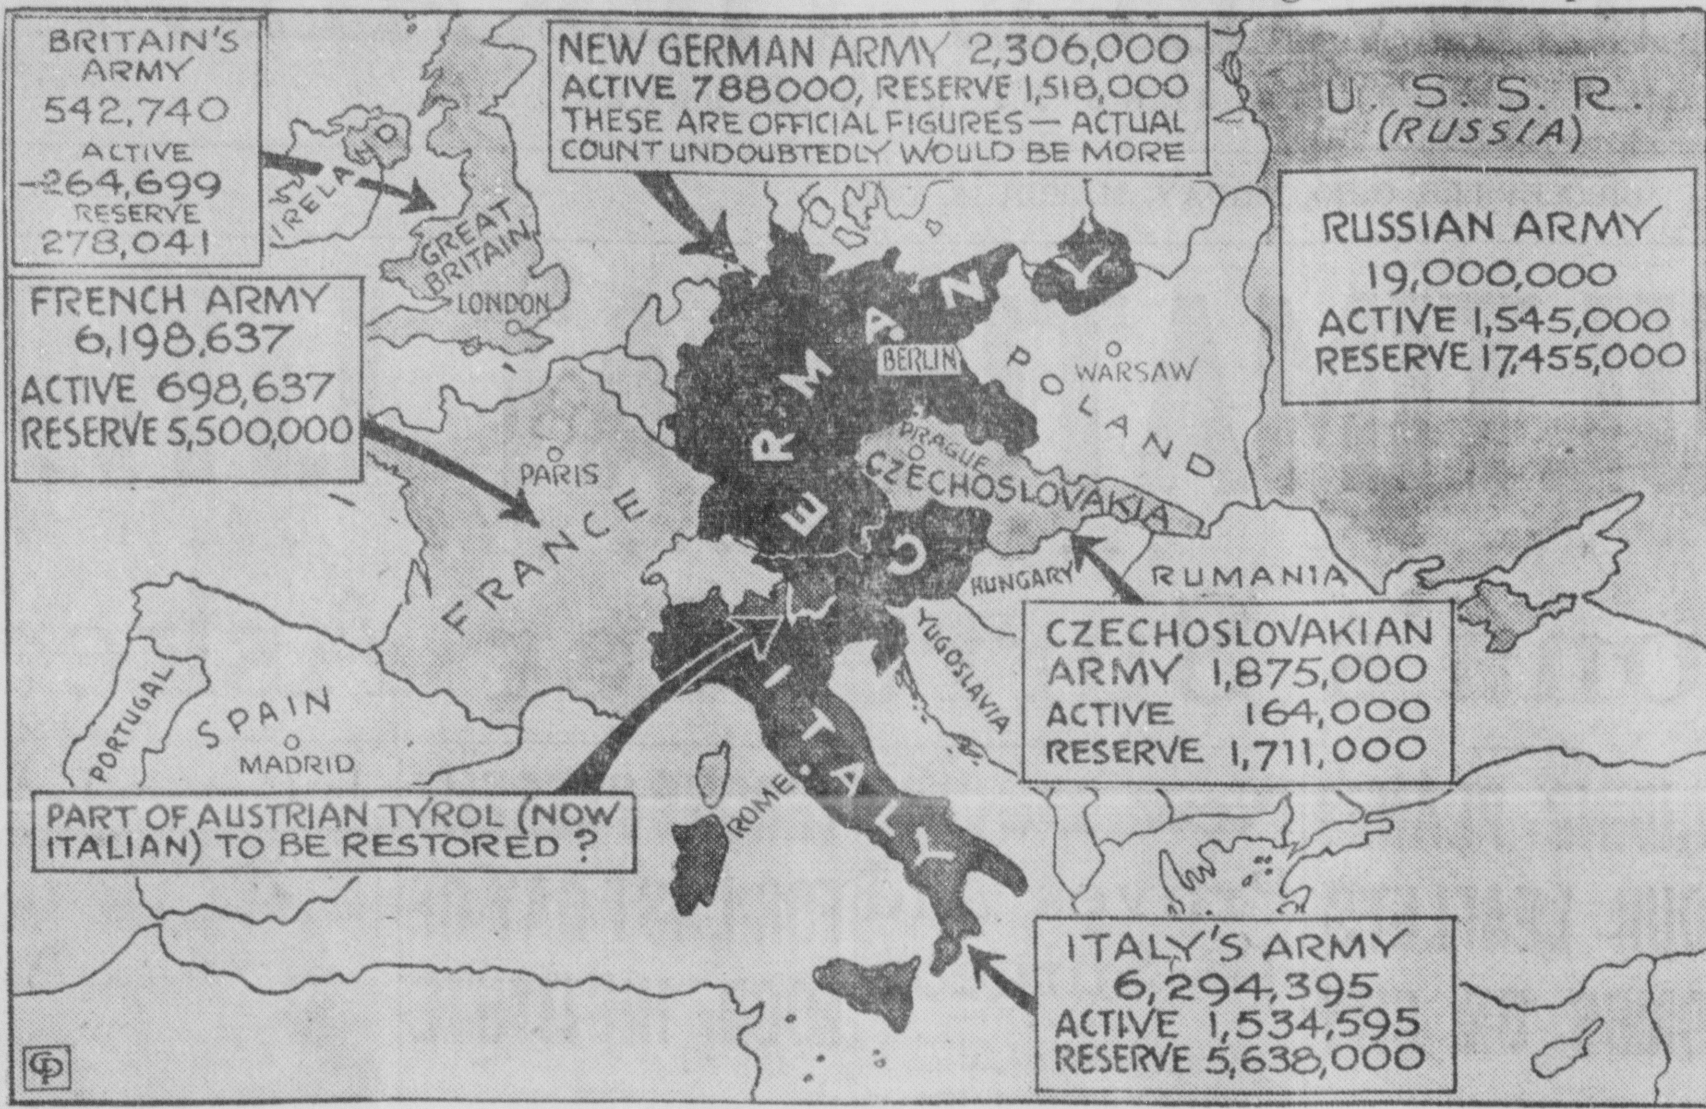

His German father gave parental blessings and the knife. That was 15 years ago.

An expert in hotel culinary work, Hillenback has no desire to return to his native land.

"Why should I want to go back? Anyway, it costs a lot of money to go to Germany."

Stanley Reed "Never Spanked" ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (UP).—Ryan Adams, barber, remembers Justice Stanley Reed as a school boy in Minerva, Ky., who "never got a spanking in his life." "He was a chubby, good-natured kid," Adams said, "and I don't remember anyone having a fight with him. He was a regular fellow."

Military Might of Nations Draws Interest Following Hitler Coup

AS EUROPE'S blood pressure rises over Hitler's coup in making Austria part of the new German empire, attention is focused in the armed strength of the nations and on the Rome-Berlin axis. The map shows the comparative strength of the armies of Europe, although Germany's actual war strength actually is far over these official figures, as she has a three-fourths greater man power than France. Hitler also has added approximately 188,000 to his German army, by annexing Austria. The map also shows the Italian Tyrol, which, some reports say, may be given back to Austria by Premier Mussolini of Italy. Although now a part of Italy, that section of the Tyrol lying within the Duce's domain is predominantly German in race and language. It was allotted to Italy following the World war.

Chief of A. A. A. Defends Farm Plans, Hits Critics

COLUMBUS, March 18.—"None so blind as those who will not see," is the answer of Elmer F. Kruse, St. Marys, chairman of the state committee for the administration of the 1938 farm program, to those who declare they cannot understand the new farm law.

The state chairman declared that opponents of the farm program concentrate most of their criticism on the law's complexity, and then the critics say the program will limit a farmer's control of his own business. The latter is termed regimentation, and the inference is that some bureaucrat will tell the farmer when and how much to sow and to harvest.

Mr. Kruse challenges any person to find anywhere in the 1938 program authority given to anyone to place a limit on the planting or harvesting of any crop. Every Ohio farmer and every other farmer can plant and harvest as many acres of any crop as his plans and ability to get the work done will permit.

As to the complexity of the measure, Mr. Kruse explained in a talk at Ohio State university, that the law has three principles which can be easily understood by any person who desires accurate information. The 1938 law encourages the maintenance of soil productivity, it attempts to protect farmers and consumers against scarcity and against overabundance of basic food and fiber crops, and it will provide crop insurance in the future on wheat to those growers who wish to have such insurance.

Mr. Kruse rather resents intimations that bureaucrats will supervise Ohio farming. He mentions first that his colleagues on the state committee, Dale C. Williams, Hollansburg; D. D. Deeds, Granville; and Clark W. Van Scholck, Hilliards, like himself, are farmers living on farms and operating them. J. W. Wulchert, who represents the Ohio State University agricultural extension service, on the state committee was a specialist in animal husbandry before becoming a committeeman and owns a farm in Montgomery county.

The farm program in each Ohio county will be administered in 1938 as it has been in all preceding programs by county and community committees. Each committeeman is a farmer and was chosen in an election by farmers to fill the position he occupies. Mr. Kruse believes if these men were sifted through a fine screen, a lot of practical knowledge of farm problems would be obtained but no trace of bureaucracy would appear.

BRONCO BUSTER RIDES MINUTE AND GETS $100

DENVER (UP).—Burel Mulkey's ability to stay right-side-up on an unbroken bronco brought him more than $100 a minute last year, he revealed between buckings at the National Western livestock show here.

"It's nice work, if you can take it," the world champion bronco rider said. "And the nice thing about it is that you only work 12 seconds a day when there's a rodeo—and only five days a week then."

Last year the 31-year-old cowpuncher earned between $5,000 and $10,000 and did it all in about 52 minutes of work.

"The working time doesn't sound like much, but you sure enough do a lot of riding in 12 seconds time—if you stay on," Mulkey said. A rider has to "stay on" to win prize money and Mulkey is one of the highest paid men in the business.

Mulkey was reared on a ranch in Salmon, Ida. He does not intend to give up the "bronco breaking" as long as it remains as profitable as it has thus far, he said.

"It's a good business," he smiled. "Peaceful most of the time and not a chance of a sit-down strike."

The largest one-year planting program of tree planting ever attempted by the U. S. government now is under way.

CHARLES WILKEY IS DEAD AT 70 AT DARBYVILLE

Charles A. Wilkey, 70, died Thursday at his home, near Darbyville, cancer proving fatal.

Mr. Wilkey is survived by his widow, Margaret Harris Wilkey; three sons, Charles A., Darby township; Harry, at home; John F., Williamsport; one daughter, Mrs. Edna M. McPherson, Pherson; six grandchildren, two half-sisters and one half-brother.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Darbyville church with burial in the village cemetery.

TWO SECRETS POP OUT SALISBURY, Mass. (UP).—Miss Edith Deale of Rig's Island in a confidential moment told her brother William of her marriage last September. After a moment's surprise he revealed his December elopement. They discovered that both had married in Seabrook, N. H., and that Judge Ralph O. Bragg had performed both ceremonies.

Some of the spring suits include fingertip length fitted jackets.

Prominent Viennese Jews
Shoot Themselves As Purge Continues

HITLER TALK AWAITED

Nazis To Change Name Of Famous Square

VIENNA, March 18—(UP)—Two prominent Jewish physicians committed suicide today.

Prof. Wolfgang Denk, internationally known head of the University of Vienna's second surgical clinic, and Jonas Borak, X-ray specialist, shot themselves as the Nazification of Austria continued under a new slogan: "One Blood; One Folk; One Reich; One Fuehrer."

Nazis, still celebrating jubilantly the union of Austria and Germany, awaited eagerly Adolf Hitler's speech before the Reichstag in Berlin tonight, which will be broadcast throughout "greater Germany."

The purge of Jews went on in even greater force, especially in governmental and cultural institutions.

Orchestra Nazified

The Vienna philharmonic orchestra was Nazified, stripped of its Jewish members and placed in charge of Commissar Wilhelm Jerger, composer and contrabass of the orchestra.

As the result of the Nazification of art dealers, the world in the future will be deprived of further dealings in rare Austrian art treasures. It was revealed that an administrative decree had been issued, prohibiting the sale or exchange of art treasures owned either privately or by cloisters or monasteries.

Universities and institutions of higher learning throughout Austria will remain closed until April 20, when they will reopen with solemn dedication ceremonies to Nazi ideology. Many changes in staffs were expected.

Personal changes already are under way in the opera and other state-owned theatres throughout the country for the purpose of assuring the population that in the future neither the voice of a Jew nor the words of a Jewish author will be heard from official platforms.

It was learned from Salzburg that Max Reinhardt square there, named for the famous theatrical producer and former actor, would be re-named for a non-Jewish personage.

The German Reichsmark was circulating in Austria today as legal tender along with the Austrian schilling in a ratio of one mark to 1 1/2 schillings. The schilling will disappear after the population has become thoroughly familiar with the Reichsmark.

Decrees Issued

Morning newspapers published three decrees by Fuehrer Hitler:

1—Empowering the reich minister of national economy to liquidate Austrian currency and customs barriers whenever it is felt to be necessary.

2—Merging Austrian and German national banks.

3—Merging the administration of the Austrian federal railways with the German reich railways.

Joseph Buerkel, German Nazi in charge of the April 10 plebiscite, announced that the Nazi regime in Austria would interfere with private business only to the minimum necessary to guarantee the state's existence.

MANY NIGHT'S SLEEP BROKEN
BEFORE HE TOOK "VENDOL"

Pains in back, legs, knees, neck and shoulders kept him awake hours, but Vendol relieved constipation and now he enjoys comfortable rest.

"I knew several people who praised Vendol highly for the relief it gave and as I was in pretty bad shape, decided to try it and I'm sorry I waited and suffered so long because it has given me complete comfort," says Mr. Fred Kirshner of 207 Bellevue Ave., Springfield, Ohio.

"There were many nights that I could get no sleep because I ached all over. The pains changed about from my neck and shoulders down through my arms, back, hips and knees to my feet and ankles. Sometimes in one place, other times in another.

"After eating I would swell up with gas till my clothing felt tight, acid risings came up in my throat and sometimes felt like I had a lump that I could neither swallow nor throw out. Sometimes I felt dizzy, bright spots darted before my eyes, had a bad taste in my mouth, tongue was coated and my complexion was ashen.

"All of my troubles came from a bad case of constipation which seemed I could get no medicine to relieve. I took oil, crystals, salts and other things but always had to change from one to another because they wore out on me.

MR. FRED KIRSHNER

"But Vendol has been different. It gave marvelous relief from this constipation and now I have at least one movement every day and often the second. This has relieved my other troubles and now I sleep well, get up with a good appetite and everything agrees with my stomach. No more gas, cramps or sourness. I haven't had a sign of these pains that used to keep me awake. My advice to anyone troubled like I was is not to wait one day but start taking Vendol at once."

LUTHERAN MEN
ENJOY SPLENDID
"WITS" CONTEST

Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood met in regular semi-monthly session, Thursday, with vice president Charles H. Walters presiding.

Devotional services were opened by the group singing "Work for the Night is Coming," followed by Rev. G. L. Troutman reading the 91st Psalm and offering of prayer and closed with song "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

After the business session, the meeting was recessed and Gladden Troutman and his nine-man committee served a lunch of various soups, celery and coffee.

Under the head of Current Events, Karl J. Herrmann gave an interesting talk of "The Austrian Situation of To-Day."

The meeting was then given over to Charles H. Weldinger and Roy Stout who had charge of the "Test Your Wits" program.

Six teams of seven members each were chosen, with George C. Griffith, E. E. Wolf, L. K. Athey, Karl Herrmann, Rev. G. J. Trout-man, Frank H. Palm and J. D. Hummel serving as captains of the various teams.

The questions were propounded and judged by Mr. Weldinger and tally kept by Mr. Stout and after a stormy contest of one hour, J. D. Hummel's team composed of Cyril H. Palm, Luther J. List, Eymann Wolfe, William Koch and Ludwig Haecker won with a perfect score.

The various teams rated as follows: J. D. Hummel 55; Rev. G. L. Troutman 40; Karl J. Herrmann 30; L. K. Athey 25; Frank H. Palm 22 1/2; E. E. Wolf 20, and George C. Griffith 15. This program was entirely different from any one ever put on during the 25 years of the Brotherhood's history and proved to be a big winner.

The next regular session will be held on Thursday evening, April 7, before which date the executive committee will work out and publish the programs for the next three months.

OPEN LETTERS

TO SUBDIVISION OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: D. H. Marcy, relief director, and the county commissioners deserve praise for the stand they have taken on the county's relief situation and their efforts to educate city, township and village officials to the problems that confront them. Few subdivision officials realized the seriousness of migrating-indigent families until they attended a meeting this week in the courthouse. Pickaway county's relief load is comprised largely of families who have moved into this district from southern Ohio counties or states south of Ohio. These families present numerous problems to health and school officials. City and village councilmen should follow the suggestion made by county officials and adopt housing regulations that would eliminate some of the "camps" that have sprung up. Pickaway county, thanks to the careful administration of funds, has been able to meet its relief problems in a satisfactory manner. This county, because it has relief funds, should not take care of the indigent persons of other counties who have been unable to handle relief. Strict enforcement of the laws on the transportation of indigent families would break up the moving question. I believe it would be well for the trustees to educate farmers about the importance of giving work to Pickaway countians. During corn husking season they employ hundreds of men from the hill counties. Some of these men earn enough to move their families to Pickaway county. They live in a barn, car or shed, obtain relief and finally become residents of this county to be kept on the funds of taxpayers. We welcome visitors but not the type that want to visit on county or township funds and become permanent liability.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CUB SCOUTERS

BOYS: You fellows between the ages of nine and 12 have it in your own hands whether or not there will be a Boy Scout Cub pack organization in Circleville. It is up to you to get busy, influencing your parents to attend the meeting next week where they may obtain all necessary information before agreeing to participate in the program. If the Cub pack is to be organized your efforts mean much toward its success. All boys between nine and 12 are eligible to become members of this so-called junior Boy Scout unit. On reaching 12 you automatically become a Boy Scout. The movement contains much merit; it deserves careful consideration by parents of boys in that age span. Circleville and Pickaway county can use more Boy Scout troops, and it can certainly find a place for a Cub pack. I hope that area council Scout executives are able to organize a troop in the community. The meeting held this week, which attracted about 25 parents, was a success and it is almost certain that the one scheduled for next week will be even better. Get busy, boys, and urge your parents to give you the break that other lads of your age will receive.

CIRCUITEER.

TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

MEMBERS: Orchids go to you this week for agreeing to sponsor two projects that should prove successes. One is a movement to beautify Circleville's backyards; another is a plan to honor the person each month who, in the opinion of the directors, does most for Circleville during that month. The beautification program should have the wholehearted support of all who have pride in their properties. Whether there should be a prize or numerous prizes, scores of homeowners should attempt to make their backyards the most beautiful in the city. The support of the Garden club will make this project's success a certainty. The honor of being Circleville's most outstanding individual for a month should appeal to many. It is entirely possible, and probable, that the person selected by the directors will be one who has no idea that he has done something for the city. The project may spur citizens on to bigger and better things. I hope that both movements will gain support from all persons interested in Circleville.

CIRCUITEER.

TO HIGHWAY OFFICIALS

FRIENDS: Again there has been heavy rainfall, and again the motorists of Circleville and Pickway county have been inconvenienced by water inundating federal highway No. 22, between the city and Williamsport. I know that you are doing everything in your power to obtain federal money for a reconstruction project that will right the situation that prevails now on this highway. Every year, at least once, the federal route is covered by water. Traffic must be detoured several miles around the usual route; inconvenience after inconvenience appears because of the dangerous circumstance. Recent tests conducted at no little expense are believed to have determined what kind of project should be attempted. I hope that Uncle Sam's man in charge of the pursestrings soon opens his heart to provide the improvement all of south-central Ohio wants and needs so badly.

One More Wedding

by HELEN WELSHIMER

COPYRIGHT
CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Barbara Kingsley, pretty young society editor of the Martinsville Post, has just "covered" another wedding. She is tired of the routine but Peter Baxter, managing editor, cheers her fading spirits. Garry Page, New York newspaper man in town for the wedding, misses his train back and Barbara, at the train to pick up pictures, offers to drive him to the Junction to catch the last train that night. They have dinner and, at the Junction, run into the wedding party, including Barbara's proud cousin, Julia. A few weeks later, Natalie Kendall, a close friend of Barbara's who is a New York fashion columnist, wires Barbara of an opening on a child magazine. Barbara decides to take the position and Natalie meets her upon her arrival in New York. Barbara learns that Garry Page is a good friend of Natalie's. He leaves from a book store in a paper that she has joined the magazine in New York. He sends a note for her to phone.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 5

"GARRY PAGE?" Barbara asked as she held the telephone receiver to her ear in the drug store booth. There was no need to ask, though, when she knew that voice so well.

"It is." Then: "Is this Barbara Kingsley?"

He gave her little chance to talk, though. He was taking the conversation into his own hands. She heard him say that he would pick her up at half-past seven and they would have dinner—that she shouldn't dress because it wasn't necessary and anyway he didn't have much time, unless she wanted to, then he would—that it was his right to introduce her to New York.

"Why didn't you tell me you were coming?" he asked. "Too busy?"—got it out of the book news in the papers."

How could she say she had thought it might be presumptuous? She began: "But, it seemed—it seemed..."

"Never mind. You're here. I'll see you at seven-thirty."

While she got ready, Barbara wished that Garry had asked her to dress. The yellow frock which Natalie had given her was by far the best looking thing in her wardrobe. She voiced this thought to the older girl, who began to rummage through Barbara's clothes. She held up a rust colored crepe at last.

"Wear this with the new sandals. They match. I have a green beret of silk and straw that will do more for you than it ever did for me, and some lace gloves that blend. You'll put the breakfast food neiress out of the running."

"Oh, yes..." For a little while she had forgotten her. "Don't look so tragic, honey. She doesn't mean a thing—not a box of whatever it is she represents."

Barbara was ready when Garry came. He was as clear-eyed and natural as she had remembered him. His eyes approved the rust dress and the green hat. He was friendly to Natalie and when he and Barbara were alone in the elevator he looked down at her and grinned.

"Why do I feel as though I'm greeting somebody from home?" he asked. "I do—and I knew you three hours."

Three—so he hadn't forgotten the number, either.

"We're going to have to work fast tonight, Barbara," Garry told her. "There are so many things I want to show you."

But they didn't move very fast. They sat for a long time, at the end of an out-of-door garden, down in the Italian section where they went for dinner. A musical comedy moon, too big and golden, came up and hung over the little garden, and the proprietor, who cooked the food on a great stove in the kitchen that opened into the garden and served it, too, came to sit with them a few minutes.

They had minestrone, chicken cacciatore, vegetables cooked in their own juices.

"Will you come here with me when I get back, Barbara?" Garry asked. "We'll have spaghetti—half a bushel of it. What do you want to do now?"

"Anything?" she answered. "Then I have an idea. We'll go to the top of the RCA building and see the view."

There was a cool, fresh wind, smart with the smell of salt, blowing on the RCA terrace and Barbara took off her green beret and held her curls back. She and Garry stood side by side, looking over the parapet. She thought of last night when she had searched and searched for him. Life was so much better even than you expected it to be, if you only trusted it far enough. She must not forget again.

Garry put his hand over hers.

U. S. YOUTH PACIFICIST?

Ordinarily a generation which has had a war does not want another one. It is "fed up". But the next, inexperienced generation has the war fever.

Our present generation, just rising, apparently is an exception. It is pacifistic. Numerous representatives of our various youth movements have testified before congressional committees of late, saying that they would refuse to fight under any circumstances.

The investigators have been somewhat shocked by these declarations.

Why? Well, the investigators are old boys who participated in taking us into the last war. The witnesses are young chaps who see only the last war's results. They got none of the fun out of it. All they see is the aftermath.

We have not completely changed generations yet.

WHEN?

Certainly the war situation looks mighty ugly.

Still, the time may not quite have arrived for the egg to hatch. It will, though.

"... and I knew you three hours."

and there was strength and protection in the gesture. Together they watched the row of white lights winding up to Harlem, the yellow pageantry that went up the sky where the Skyway began across the New Jersey flats, and the play of ships' lanterns where boats waited in the rivers for the morning treks to begin.

Garry counted the streets for her until he found the pier where the Normandie was docked. She could see it, waiting quietly for morning, and unconsciously her hand tightened around the fingers that held hers.

"I'll just be away a month," he said simply.

"Yes," she answered.

They dropped in at Toni's, on West Fifty-second street, for a few minutes but there were few people there tonight that Garry knew so they didn't stay. And in the end they took a hansom cab at the Plaza and drove around Central park. The leaves were heavy on the trees and the park was quiet. Barbara found herself wondering how many other times Garry had driven through the park with other people. She would have this ride to save, anyway, no matter with whom she came later. For a moment she wondered what the park looked like in a snowfall. She would find out some day.

"You're coming to see me off, aren't you, Barbara? The boat sails at 11 but there will be some people gathering around 10."

Strangely enough she didn't want to. She wished that she had an excuse for not going. To say goodbye now would be to keep her friendship with Garry fresh and happy.

"I don't know anyone, Garry," she answered, "and you'll be so busy. Let me wish you bon voyage now—"

He interrupted her. "Then it's high time you met some people. I'm not saying goodbye, for I'll be watching for you tomorrow! Promise?"

"I promise."

In the morning it was raining. It was a downpour that plainly intended to last all day. Taxicabs were in a tangle in the streets.

"Start early and give yourself time," Natalie cautioned. "Traffic will be in a jam on the cross-town streets and at the pier."

Barbara had a brown wool crepe suit which she wore with a yellow blouse and a brown felt sports hat and brown sandals.

Finally her cab drew up in front of the steamship offices. The elevator was crowded so she walked up the long flight of stairs to the floor which connected with the gangplank.

Far at the end she saw the boat.

Then she was giving a steward the cabin number, following him through palatial halls and rooms to an elevator. She could hear sounds of laughter and voices before she reached the party. Girls' voices, high and gay. Men's voices, deep and gay. It was light-hearted chatter, the kind that comes when everybody knows everybody else. For a second Barbara hesitated. Then she threw her rust curls higher. Garry had wanted her and here she was! She knocked at the partly open door.

A girl reached out her hand and opened the door wider.

"Oh hello," she said. "Come in."

A boy, tall and good looking with merry eyes, waved at her. "I don't know you but I want to. I'm Ray Lipton."

Barbara did not see Garry. She wondered if he had not arrived. She opened her mouth a time or two to ask about him but nobody was paying any attention to her. Maybe she had the wrong room! But no. Garry's name was being mentioned. Then, just as the steward began his warnings that passengers must leave, Garry came.

He stood in the doorway, careless in expensive brown tweeds, and Barbara felt her heart slipping from its moorings as surely as the boat would leave its berth presently.

He came straight to Barbara. "You did come! I had to see the purser or I'd have been here to welcome you. I bet you haven't met anyone. There's no time for introductions now but I want you to know Ruth Merryweather." He turned to a girl whose hair was as yellow as Julia's, but whose eyes were friendly and sympathetic and warm in their blue-ness.

Ruth Merryweather held out her hand. "I want to know you lots better and maybe I can manage some other introductions while Garry's shooting down the river."

The crowd was moving into the corridor, squeezing into the elevator or walking down the steps, and Garry was saying goodbye to everyone.

Ruth smiled her farewell. "Garry, I have to dash to a Junior league meeting. We'll do the introductions later, Miss Kingsley." She turned back to Garry. "Have a grand time and if you don't get seasick after the breakfast you ate this morning, you should patent your stomach."

So Garry had met Ruth for his last meal on shore! Barbara wished that she had not come.

Stomach Is Affected By Other Bodily Diseases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A FRIEND of mine who looked, as the British say, "rather seedy", whispered to me the other day,

"When are you going to get around to the stomach?"

I might as well be there as anywhere, so here I am at the stomach.

When we were discussing the heart, a few months ago, I pointed out that on the opening page of a modern treatise on the heart is the sentence:

"Most 'Heart Disease' is imaginary."

That certainly coincides with my experience, and the reason for it is that the idea of heart disease is dreamed, therefore often comes to mind, with the result that without any symptoms at all referable to the heart, there are few of us who have not at some time or other had the idea that we have heart disease.

That is not exactly true of the stomach, but it is true that the stomach is very sensitive and gets upset for causes that are not in the stomach at all. A revolting sight makes you "sick at your stomach".

A love affair takes away Billie's appetite. A smell from the kitchen makes you so ravenously hungry that your stomach rolls and gurgles. Those things do not mean stomach disease—only stomach symptoms, as you realize quickly enough when you connect in your mind the symptoms with the cause. What probably you don't realize is that many disturbances less easily recognizable produce stomach symptoms, when the connection between the two is not plain.

Most "Stomach Disease" then, I should say, is functional or reflex.

What Is Functional Disease?

Functional disease—what do we mean by that? We mean symptoms without any anatomical basis. You have a bruise or an ulcer on your finger—the pain is very easily explained. But you have "neuritis" in your finger and you can put every nerve fiber in the vicinity under the microscope without finding anything in the least abnormal.

The distinction between functional and anatomic or organic disease is one that the diagnostician must make at the very outset. "Patients," said a great London physician, "who suffer from diseases are many; those who think they suffer from them are still more numerous. The two divisions comprise a very large section of the human race. The diagnosis between diseases of structure and disorder of function, may be by no means easy and it is necessary to make a careful investigation."

The only common organic disease of the stomach is ulcer. "Dropped stomach" occurs frequently, but since in most cases no complaint is made, it is difficult to determine in the rest whether the complaint is on a functional or organic basis.

But symptoms of any kind in the stomach can be caused reflexly by such faraway things as gall bladder infection, anemia, constipation, alcoholism, constitutional habits, migraine, nervous disease, or rheumatism in the back.

DOG IDENTIFIES LOST BOY

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Two year-old Rex Rusang's best friend he learned in his hour of need, was Renny the Roamer, his dog. Lost in a maze of unfamiliar streets 23 blocks from home and unable to give policemen his name, Rex was "rescued" by the dog, which in lieu of a language exhibited a license tag to furnish a clue.

To accommodate visitors to New York City during the 1939 world's fair the Metropolitan Opera company will play a 40-week Manhattan season, largely eliminating its customary road tours.

Mrs. Larry Athey Has Bridge-Tea for Guest

Mrs. O. L. Meister of Pittsburgh Honored

Complimenting Mrs. O. L. Meister of Pittsburgh, her house guest, Mrs. Larry Athey entertained at a bridge-tea, Thursday. Four tables of contract bridge progressed during the afternoon. Bridge favors for score were won by Mrs. James I. Smith, Jr., and Mrs. George Crites. Miss Alice A. May received the traveling prize. Mrs. Meister was presented an attractive gift by the hostess. Other guests present for the bridge games included Miss Evangeline Smith, Mrs. J. P. Noecker, Mrs. J. E. Groom, Mrs. Robert Musser, Mrs. John W. Eshelman, Mrs. Harold Grant, Mrs. Harold Eveland, Mrs. Tom Renick, Mrs. Don White, Mrs. Emmitt Crist, and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap. At the conclusion of play, the guests gathered around the tea table in the dining room for a social half-hour. A bowl of cluster narcissi centered the attractive table, and the light of many candles cast a soft glow over the service. Mrs. Paul Adkins, Mrs. H. M. Crites and Miss Lucille Neuding joined the group at the tea hour.

Christ Lutheran Aid
Mrs. Harry C. Kern of Jackson township was hostess at the March meeting of the Ladies' Society of Christ Lutheran church. The devotional and business session was in charge of the Rev. G. L. Troutman, president. During this period the missionary topic for the month, "Colored Missions in Baltimore," was read by Mrs. Lyle Davis. At the close of the business hour the following program was given: reading, "Our Friendship," Mrs. Noah List; recitation, "Our Puppy Dog," Bobby List; reading, "Sowing Seed," Mrs. Lawrence Krimmel; recitation, "Sometimes My Hands are Naughty," Ruth Troutman. Mrs. Kern, assisted by Mrs. William Trump served refreshments in keeping with St. Patrick's Day.

Connolly-Bostwick
Mrs. Mae Bostwick, of Circleville, and Mr. Robert William Connolly, of Chicago, Ill., were united in marriage, Thursday afternoon at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church. The Rev. H. A. Sayre read the single ring ceremony at 4 o'clock in the presence of Betty and Beverly Bostwick, daughters of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sharpe. For her wedding, the new Mrs. Connolly wore a beige suit with brown accessories.

Church of Brethren Aid
The Ladies' Aid society of the Church of the Brethren met at the home of Mrs. Harry Woods, S. Court street, Thursday evening. The service opened with group singing followed by prayer by Mrs. Charles Essick. Scripture verses were repeated by the group.

and Gilbert Edgington at the conclusion of the games. Lunch was served during the social hour.

Dresbach Ladies Aid
Dresbach Ladies' Aid society will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. S. Metzler, E. Franklin street. The meeting will be called to order at 2 o'clock and a covered dish lunch will be served.

Ebenhack-Beavers
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Beavers, W. Main street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Esther, to Mr. Charles Ebenhack of Williamsport.

The ceremony was performed Feb. 6, at Newport, Ky., the Rev. John R. Creamer, of the Salem Methodist Episcopal church, officiating.

Past Matrons' and Patrons' Club
Lawrence Johnson, Leslie May and C. D. Bennett were hosts, Thursday evening, when the Past Matrons' and Patrons' club of the Order of the Eastern Star met in Masonic Temple.

An amusing and interesting program in keeping with St. Patrick's Day was enjoyed by the guests. Lunch was served during the social period.

Mrs. E. S. Neuding was in the chair for the brief business session, and appointed Mrs. G. H. Adkins, Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer and Earl Hilyard, members of the social committee for the next meeting.

Willing Workers' Class
Twenty-three members were present Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Turney Kraft entertained the Willing Workers' class of the Pontius United Brethren church at her home in Washington township. The business meeting and devotion were led by Miss Edwina Holderman and prayer was voiced by Mrs. Walter Richards, who also asked the Bible study questions.

The afternoon was passed in sewing patches for a comfort. The members decided to purchase a blanket with the money received as a donation at the meeting. This is in continuation of the work of the class in helping a needy family in Circleville.

A St. Patrick's Day lunch was served by the hostess.

The April meeting of the group will be at the home of Mrs. Floy Brobst, Washington township.

Pythian Sisters
The Pythian Sisters were entertained at a St. Patrick's Day party by the committee in charge of the social hour, Thursday evening, at Pythian Castle. Miss Helen Liston was in charge of the business meeting during which time plans were made for the annual inspection which will be held Thursday, April 7.

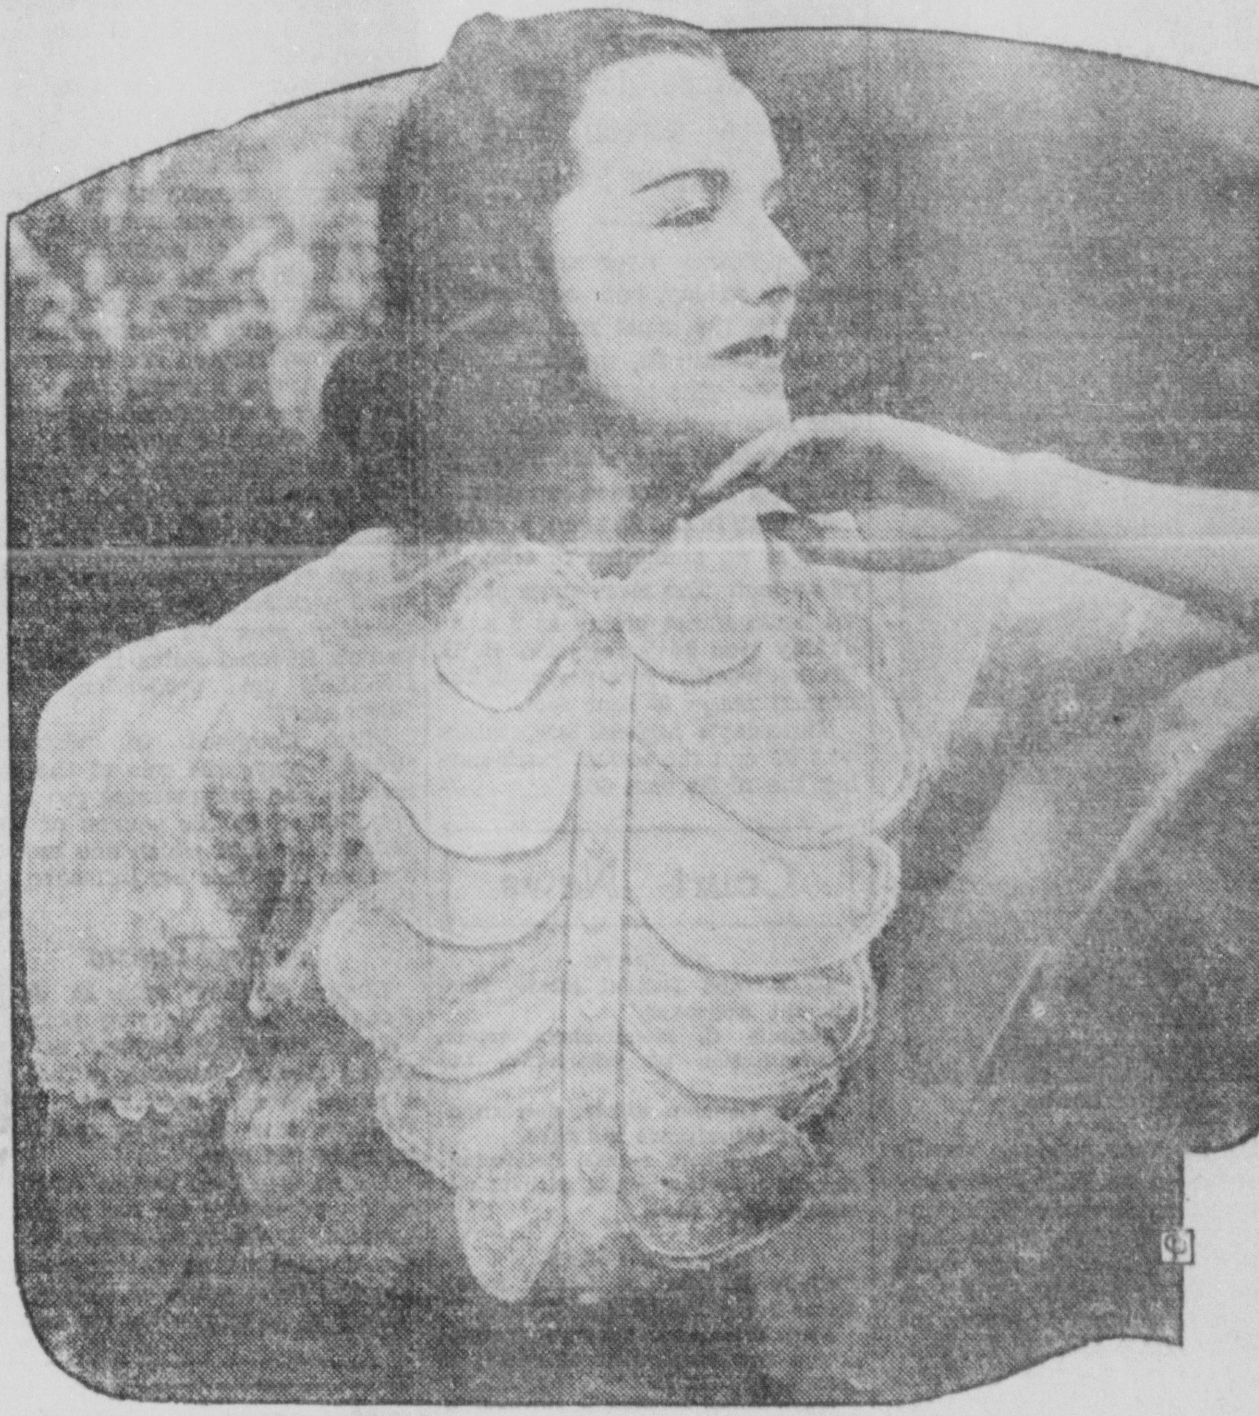

Committees were named for the affair with Mrs. John Ward, chairman of the dining room, Mrs. Charles Stoffer, chairman of the kitchen and Mrs. Nora Valentine, chairman of the reception committee.

Cards were the diversion of the evening, and lunch was served to 26 members at the tables, attractive place cards in keeping with St. Patrick's Day being used as favors. Mrs. Fred Newhouse was chairman of the social committee.

Presby-Weds Elect
Fred Howell was elected president of the Presby-Weds, Thursday evening, at the business meeting which followed the covered dish dinner in the social room of Presbyterian church. Others named for office for the ensuing year include Mrs. Franklin Price, vice president; Donald Walker, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Robert Kelsey, pianist; Franklin Brice, chorister, and Mrs. Clara Belle Spangler, reporter.

The evening's program was opened with a vocal solo, "Mother Machree", by Mr. Price, with Miss

Sheer Washable Blouse a "Must" For That Spring Suit

Washable swiss organdie blouse with val lace edged jabot and cuffs.

EVERY SUIT calls for a blouse—or several blouses. The more the merrier for the average woman, for she feels she can vary her costume better by changing her blouse than in almost any other way.

Very sheer blouses were in demand last summer and will be this year as soon as the weather grows warm. In fact, they are already being worn in the warmer parts of the North American continent, and were much in evidence in the south.

The blouse shown here is a particularly charming one for Easter, as its petal jabot and floral pattern remind one of that flowery season. The material is a washable transparent Swiss organdie with a subtle floral shadow print. The petal jabot flares widely on each side of the front closing of this crisp spring blouse. Fine valenciennes lace edges the jabot, collar and short, puffed sleeves.

Oh, oh, something new and original in blouses—in colors to match your eyes! It originated with Mme. Agnes, and the colors are in green, violet, brown, gray and blue. These blouses are also in crisp sheers, with fluffy bow-tied neckline, much as the one shown here.

Abbe Mills Clarke playing the accompaniment. The entire group joined in singing the chorus. Loren Pace played two selections on his saxophone, "Getting Sentimental Over You" and "Star Dust". Games were played following the program with prizes won by Mrs. Price, the Rev. Robert Kelsey and Mr. Walker.

During the business hour, it was decided that the organization would meet for a covered dish dinner at 6 o'clock the second Friday in each month.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Clara Belle Spangler, Ward street. Mr. Walker will be chairman of the program committee and will be assisted by Miss Margaret Hunsicker and John Barrieklow.

Mrs. Crites Hostess
Mrs. Vaughn Crites of Watt street entertained the members of her bridge club, Thursday evening, at dinner, the affair marking the birthday anniversary of Mr. Crites.

The party was arranged as a surprise and covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Delos Marcy, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Crites, Mrs. Myra Rader, Miss Myriam Hitchcock, John Hegele and Mr. and Mrs. Crites. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock, the table, attractive in St. Patrick's Day decorations, being lighted with many tall green party appointments were in a green and white color theme.

COUNTY SCHOOL TEACHERS MEET IN CONFERENCE

Addresses To Be Provided
By Three Prominent
State Speakers

DAY BEGINS AT 9:45

Walnut Township Scene Of Big Gathering

Three addresses are included in the program for the county teachers' meeting to be held Saturday in the Walnut township school building from 9:45 a. m. until noon.

The speakers and their subjects are Dick Smith, assistant director of education, "The Status of the Foundation Program"; Grover Traxler, executive secretary to the director of education, "A Review of Recent School Legislation," and Prof. E. A. Hansen, chairman of the committee on elementary education of the state department, "An Outline of the State's Program in Elementary Education."

Musical features of the meeting will be under the direction of Miss Mary R. Tolbert, music instructor at Walnut school.

The program schedule follows:

Music by the Walnut township orchestra, including the selections "March from Aida," by Verdi, and "Ay! Ay! Ay!", a Spanish song; invocation by the Rev. C. L. Thomas; address by Mr. Smith; music by the Walnut elementary choir including the selections, "Oh, Good Morning, Miss Bread and Butter," by Grovlez, "Robin Redbreast," by Tegner, and "Willy, Willy, Will," by Brahms; folk dances by a group of elementary pupils; address by Mr. Traxler; music by the high school choir, including "Lo, A Voice to Heaven Sounding," by Bortnianski, "Dawn Stands Before the Forest," a Swiss folk song, and "The Spirit Flower," by Campbell-Tipton; address by Mr. Hansen, and benediction by the Rev. Thomas.

TODAY'S RECIPES

GOLD AND SILVER ANGEL FOOD CAKE—One and one-third cups egg whites, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups sugar, sifted twice; one cup cake flour, sifted; four egg yolks, two lemon extract, one teaspoon almond or vanilla. Beat egg whites with flat whip until frothy and add cream of tartar and salt. Continue beating until egg white will stand in points, but not until it loses glossiness. Gradually fold in one cup of the sifted sugar. Fold in the flour and remaining sugar, which have been sifted together three times, sifting the mixture a little at a time over the surface of the egg white and sugar meringue. Divide batter into two parts. Add to one part the egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored, the two tablespoons flour and the lemon extract. To the other part of the batter add the vanilla or almond flavoring. Drop batters by alternate spoonfuls into an ungreased tube pan. Cut through the batter quickly with a knife to break large air bubbles. Bake for one hour in 325-degree oven. Invert the pan when the cake is baked and let the angel food hang until it is completely cold.

Another Unsolved Kidnaping

Charles Mattson

June Robles

Melvin Horst

Peter Levine

KIDNAPING of Peter Levine, and its unsolved mystery, recalls other unsolved kidnapings of the last few years. The Levine boy was seized from the vicinity of his home at New Rochelle, N. Y., and reportedly held for $30,000 ransom. Nothing has been heard from him since. Almost 10 years ago, Melvin Horst, 4, of Orrville, Ohio, disappeared. He was believed kidnaped. That was in December, 1928. Several persons were arrested, several "confessed" killing the boy, and the investigation dragged over several years, but the case never has been solved. In April, 1934, June Robles, Tucson, Ariz., girl, was seized and later found alive chained in a cave in the desert. Late in December, 1936, Charles Mattson, 10, of Tacoma, Wash., was kidnaped. His body was found two weeks later near Everett, Wash. Several other kidnaping cases, also, remain unsolved.

Ohio's Farmers Splendid Customers of Feed Store

COLUMBUS, March 18—Ohio farmers harvest bountiful crops but they also are very good customers of the store which sell livestock feeds, according to the annual survey made by rural economists at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station and Ohio State University.

The survey of the amount of commercial feeds sold in Ohio discloses that farmers in this state bought 529,788 tons of mixed and unmixed feeds in 1937. This was the largest tonnage sold in the state since 1930 and is nearly double the amount sold in 1932.

Both economic and crop conditions affect the feed sales in the feed sales in the state, but a glance at the sales totals from 1929 to 1937 indicate that bad times have more effect on sales than bad crops. Ohio farmers might seem to be compelled to buy the most commercial feed in years when harvests here are poorest but the sales figures contradict that theory.

Sales have increased quite steadily each year since 1932, but they decreased rapidly from 1929 to 1932. Two severe droughts in the period seem to have little effect on the trend of sales. Short harvests in 1934 and 1936 apparently did not boost sales appreciably.

Times have changed since corn, oats, barley and wheat by-products

SCIOTO FALLS; LONE HIGHWAY UNDER WATER

River Stage Is Still Far
Above Normal Mark
Of Four Feet

The Scioto river was falling steadily Friday, but one county highway, the canal road south of Federal Route 22, was still closed to traffic. This is flooded about a half mile north of Westfall.

All federal and state highways that had been flooded are open.

Rainfall in the 24 hours previous to 8 a. m. amounted to only .12 of an inch. The river stage at the W. Main street bridge at 8 a. m. Friday was 14½ feet, Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather recorder, said. The normal stage is four feet.

Thursday's highest temperature was 60 and the lowest mark during the night was 40.

more tons of ready-mixed feeds in 1937 than they bought of single feeds for use in mixing with home-grown grains.

The 145,885 tons of mixed poultry bought by Ohio farmers was more than the combined total tonnage of mixed feeds bought for dairy cattle, hogs, and all other livestock. Many poultrymen produce little grain on their farms so their farms so they must buy most of the feed needed for their poultry. Livestock men market a lot of their home-grown grains through the livestock.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Director James Hogan, who scored twice during the past year with "Last Train From Madrid" and the South Seas drama "Ebb Tide," scores again with "Scandal Street," now playing at the Cliftona Theatre.

Drastically different from the Spanish and tropical settings of his previous productions, Hogan's "Scandal Street" is a drama of everyday hometown life in a typical American community. It tells the story of a beautiful young girl caught in the web of gossip and intrigue spun by jealous women who envy her attractiveness and misunderstand her motives. Lew Ayres, a young actor who has enjoyed widespread popularity for his dramatic portrayals ever since his smashing performance in "All Quiet on the Western Front," has the male lead. Opposite him is beautiful Louise Campbell, star of two "Bulldog Drummond" pictures with John Howard, and most recently seen as Margot Grahame's ill-fated sister in Cecil B. DeMille's epic production, "The Buccaneer."

Miss Campbell, in "Scandal Street," plays the role of the attractive and well-meaning girl who is attacked by the women of the community into which she moves because they fear her influence on their husbands.

NEW INSURANCE AIDS FAILURES

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Three Washington University students, who prefer to remain anonymous, have formed an organization in which members, on payment of 25 cents to $1.60 per week, are insured against failure in any subject.

The premium to be paid is an amount equal to the Summer school tuition of the subject in which the holder should fail.

Rates for insurance against failure of the organization — known as Enterprises, Inc.—after the student's past grade record is examined, his grades in the course to date and the difficulty of the subject and number of weeks left in the term.

Other services are offered also, including insurance against marriage before graduation. One application was rejected because the co-ed was too pretty and, as a freshman, had three more years of school. The risk was too great. Enterprises, Inc., decided.

Insurance against failure to graduate carries a gift premium to console the student.

NEWARK AND UPPER ARLINGTON FEATURE FIRST ROUND TOURNEY FRAYS

About This And That In Many Sports

Baseball Starting

Baseball is in the air over New Holland way, with Mike Helfrich getting ready to swing into action with his team, affiliated in the National Semi-Pro Congress. . . . Mike has called a meeting for next Thursday in the Perry township village, and all YOUNG athletes who believe they can play ball should be on hand. . . . Shadel Saunders, former New Holland coach now a member of the teaching and coaching corps at Columbus Central, has been signed to handle the Helfrich club. . . . Mike is seeking young fellows who have promise. . . .

Tall Players Necessary

If your basketball team doesn't have size, meaning three boys of six feet two inches or better, it just doesn't belong in the state tournament. . . . Every winner in the "B" meet Thursday had at least three boys who towered over the six foot mark. . . . The teams that didn't have the behemoths fell by the wayside. . . . They just didn't belong in the elite circle. . . . From the showing of the teams in the Thursday evening encounters Walt Henschman's Upper Arlington boys should go through the tournament, providing they can bump the gangling Canal Fulton team this afternoon. . . . Arlington should take the northern Ohioans. . . .

Hamilton in Form

Over in the "A" meet, Hamilton, defending its title gained last year, played a championship brand of ball to defeat Akron East. . . . Akron had the Hamilton outfit behind the eight-ball 5 to 12 at half-time, but Akron's Orientals were unable to score a point in the last half, Hamilton winning out 17-12. . . . Several other good games were played in the "A" tourney with the railbirds favoring Canton McKinley in the upper bracket and Newark or Bridgeport in the lower bracket to meet in the finals. . . .

Cage Season Success

The basketball season at Circleville high school, recently ended by Columbus Central in the district tournament, was much more of a success than many persons suspected. . . . At the outset of the season things were so dark that few games were scheduled; on one thought the Red and Black would win a ball game. . . . But the season had not progressed far until Jack Landrum's lads, working as a smooth unit with the will to win, started to knock off some games. . . . As a result of the showing, more games were booked, more interest was created, and the season became a huge success, seven games being won and a like number lost. . . . The outstanding victory on the slate being the Tigers' victory over Ashville, the first game on the win side of the score-book since Al Kauber took over the duties at the Harrison school. . . . A single point-divided the teams. . . .

HEMSLEY TAKES POSITION IN CLEVELAND'S LINEUP

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 18—(UP)—Rollie Hemsley, the Cleveland Indians' wayward catcher, today had made his first exhibition appearance with the Tribe. Hemsley, who was disciplined last week by Manager Oscar Vitt for failure to observe training rules, caught five innings of a contest yesterday against the New Orleans Pelicans.

Hemsley's defensive work was of a high caliber and he secured one hit in two trips to the plate. The Indians played erratic ball and dropped a 4 to 2 decision to the Pelicans. It was the first loss to New Orleans in two years.

The scheduled debut of Bob Feller, the Indians' youthful ace, was postponed when Johnny Allen asked permission to pitch. Allen worked two easy innings. The remainder of the mound assignment was shared by Willis Hudlin and Bill Zuber.

STATE'S TEAMS VIE IN SECOND SETTOS FRIDAY

Play Of Bobby Mercer Of Licking Countians Gets Applause

FAUGHT, GRAF IN FORM

Hamilton Comes From Far Behind, Wins

COLUMBUS, March 18—(UP)—Two teams that capitalize on speed today became favorites to win the Class "A" and "B" championships in the 30th annual state scholastic basketball tournament.

As the pick of the schoolboy quintets moved into the "second round, Newark and Columbus Upper Arlington stepped forward from the field of 16 teams as the choices for the titles.

Newark, winner of the "A" cage crown in 1936, and Columbus Upper Arlington, the defending "B" titlist, turned in the outstanding performances of yesterday's 10-hour marathon grind.

Newark gave the finest exhibition of any of the large division teams as it humbled a clever Youngstown East team 50 to 37. Upper Arlington advanced with an easy 53 to 16 triumph over North Baltimore.

In today's headline encounters Newark clashes with Cincinnati Roger Bacon; and Upper Arlington is pitted against a formidable Canal Fulton five.

Roger Bacon Goes On

Roger Bacon moved up with a 31 to 24 victory over Mansfield; and Canal Fulton took a free-scoring contest from Wyoming 54 to 40.

In addition to the Newark-Roger Bacon game, the Class "A" contest pits Akron Buchtel against New Philadelphia; Canton McKinley against the defending champions, Hamilton; and Akron St. Vincent against Bridgeport.

Supporting the Arlington-Canal Fulton game in the Class "B" division are battles between Enon and New Boston; Hartsville and West Milton; and Willshire and Shawnee.

The caliber of teams entered in Class "A" generally was disappointing. However, Newark justified every word of praise that had been uttered about it. The only requisite of a great team which Newark lacks is height. The Wildcats possess speed to burn, unlimited stamina and every player is a clever ball handler as well as a good shot.

In Bob Mercer, a 135-pound mite with a mop of brown hair that constantly is getting in his eyes, Newark had the finest individual star of the opening round.

Mercer is a dead shot from any place inside the foul and an untiring ball hawk. The diminutive guard scored 19 points to lead all Class "A" scorers.

Faught, Graf Hot

Upper Arlington merely toyed with North Baltimore. With its two scoring aces, Bobby Faught and Jack Graf, on a point-making rampage the defending titlists were in front from start to finish.

Faught contributed 19 points to the Upper Arlington total and Graf secured 12 markers.

Canton McKinley, the pre-tournament choice of many for the "A" crown, played erratic ball as it downed an under-rated Toledo Woodward team 26 to 22.

McKinley was in front the entire game, but its margin was never over four points.

Carl Fiore led the Canton attack with eight points and Al Greenwood paced Woodward with an equal number.

In one of the weirdest games in tournament history, Hamilton advanced with a 17 to 12 triumph over Akron East.

East Ahead 12-5

East held an 8 to 4 advantage at the end of the first quarter and was in front 12 to 5 after two minutes of the second period had been played. Then for the next 22 minutes the Akron team did not make a point.

Hamilton came with a rush to Record Attendance Mark Appears for Ohio Tourney

COLUMBUS, March 18—(UP)—Random jottings on the state scholastic basketball tournament. . . .

A new all-time attendance record is virtually assured for the cage classic. . . . A total of 10,250 persons witnessed the first round games at the Fairgrounds Coliseum and Ohio State gymnasium as compared with 8,178 fans who watched the inaugural battles last season. . . . The all-time record was established in 1937 when 25,335 fans witnessed the meet. . . .

One of the most interested spectators at yesterday's games was Thomas A. Scott, Mansfield grain dealer. . . . Scott was a member of the Mansfield high team which bested Delaware for the championship of the first state tournament in 1909. . . . A son of the old-time star, Tom, Jr., was the star forward of the present Mansfield team. . . .

The "Iron man" team of the tournament was Akron East. . . . The Orientals played their game against Hamilton without making a substitution. . . . East was the only team which did not use a reserve cager. . . .

Only once since the Ohio High School Athletic Association took over control of the state tournament has a lower scoring game than the East-Hamilton game been played in class "A". . . . That was in 1930 and oddly enough the Akron team was one of the contestants. . . . In a second round game that season East downed Fremont 16 to 9. . . .

The officiating throughout was "spotty". . . . Titus Lobach, Akron; and Kent Pfeiffer, Columbus, worked smoothly together, but never functioned well when paired with Joe Sayles of Zanesville. . . .

The opening round was disastrous for the Northwestern District. . . . Seven of the section's eight entrants were eliminated in their first games. . . . The only Northwestern district quintet to survive was Willshire. . . .

The day's top scoring honors went to Paul Rueger, speedy forward of the Enon team. . . . Rueger garnered 24 points. . . . Martin of New Boston and Wellington Ketter of Canal Fulton were next in line with 20 points each. . . .

When Al Marzano, an all-state choice in 1936, played with Newark against Youngstown East it was the first time he had been in the Wildcats, lineup since he injured a knee on Dec. 15. . . . Only once since then had the youngster even been in uniform. . . . Marzano appeared to be slowed up considerably by his injury, but played creditably as he contributed three points to the Newark total. . . .

score nine points in the final quarter to gain an exceedingly impressive triumph. The 1937 champions do not figure to go far when rated off their showing of yesterday.

One of the best played games of the inaugural round found Bridgeport edging Bowling Green 42 to 41.

Behind 41 to 37 with only 10 seconds of play remaining, Bridgeport snatched the victory when Bill Waters, substitute guard, dropped in a field goal and Si Tafra came through with a basket. Tafra fouled while shooting the tying basket and made good the free throw to give the Eastern Ohio team the decision.

New Philadelphia's rangy team gained many supporters by its 33 to 25 win over Xenia Central.

The best comeback of the round was registered by Akron Buchtel. Trailing 9 to 3 at the quarter; 16 to 5 at the half; and 22 to 15 at the three-quarter mark, Buchtel scored nine points while limiting Findlay to one foul in the last quarter to triumph.

Akron St. Vincent put up an aggressive performance as it eliminated Marietta 30 to 17.

Two Class "B" contests were decided by margins of two points. In them, Willshire edged Strasburg 36 to 34; and Shawnee downed Canfield 39 to 37.

In other "B" games, Enon bested Genoa 49 to 37; New Boston eliminated Cadiz 43 to 26; Hartsville took the measure of Radnor 27 to 20; and West Milton turned back Bettsville 40 to 31.

SCHOTT TO GET STARTING ROLE FOR CINCINNATI

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18—(UP)—Gene Schott, one of the National league's "tough luck" hurlers last year, today became the No. 1 choice as the Cincinnati Reds opening day pitcher.

Schott, who collaborated with Lloyd (Whitey) Moore in beating the Boston Red Sox last Saturday, teamed with his rookie partner in giving another excellent performance yesterday as Cincinnati defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5 to 2.

Schott worked the last five innings against the Cardinals and gave up only four hits and one run. Moore, who worked the first four rounds, permitted a run and three safeties.

Both Schott and Moore received excellent defensive support. The play of Alex Kampouris at second base was outstanding. The little Greek covered a world of territory and robbed Cardinal batsman of several hits.

Roy Henshaw, mite southpaw; and burly Bill McGee pitched for St. Louis. Henshaw was nipped for two runs in five innings; and McGee three runs and seven hits in four innings.

BEES TOP REDSOX

BRADENTON, Fla., March 18—(UP)—The Boston Bees resumed routine training today in preparation for their exhibition game against the Cincinnati Reds tomorrow. The Bees noted their fellow bean-eaters, the Red Sox, 3-2 yesterday. The Sox got six hits off Hutchison and Lanning but failed to bunch them, while the National leaguers made all of their three safeties off Dickman and Bagby count.

BIRD DOG CLUB TO DECIDE ON WEEK-END TEST

Officials of the Pickaway County Bird Dog club were undecided Friday noon as to whether they would be able to hold field trials Saturday and Sunday in the lowlands east of Yellowbud.

They planned to visit the territory during the afternoon to determine to what extent the lands had been flooded by the Scioto river. If at all possible, the trials will be held as scheduled.

Drawings for the open stakes, including the all age, derby and puppy events, are arranged for 8 p. m. Friday in the American hotel. Amateur events will be held Sunday.

COUNTY GIRL HAS PART IN COLLEGIATE PLAY-DAY

COLUMBUS, March 18—The playday's the thing for Capital university sports-minded co-eds who have been demonstrating their prowess on the volleyball, basketball, and badminton courts, at sports events in a number of central-Ohio colleges. On Saturday thirty girls under the direction of Miss Gladys Herman, physical education instructor at the university, will participate in another playday at the University of Cincinnati.

Fifteen colleges and universities, most of them from Ohio, will send groups of co-eds to compete in sports events which include basketball, badminton, deck tennis, volleyball, and swimming meets. Included in the list of colleges participating in the University of Cincinnati meet are Marietta, Ohio university, Wittenberg, Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio State, Miami, Ohio Northern, and one Indiana school, Earlham.

Besides the regular athletic events, a special feature of the playday is a stunt contest, in which each college presents a stunt for the entertainment of the other schools, the most entertaining sld being awarded a prize.

Miss Louise Fischer, a freshman in business administration at Capital, is a member of the basketball squad which will compete in the playday. Miss Fischer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Fischer, Circleville, R. F. D. 5.

Umbrellas are rented for four cents per day at certain railway passenger stations in England.

YANKEES READY TO VIE AGAINST INDIAN OUTFIT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18—(UP)—The New York Yankees get another brisk workout today in preparation for resumption of their series with the St. Louis Cardinals over the week-end.

Matters are all-square now, the Yanks having won the first, the Red Birds, the second. In an eight-inning intra-camp game yesterday, the Vets and Yannigans played to a 2-2 tie.

BUCKEYE DELAYS ELECTING NEW LOOP MEMBERS

COLUMBUS, March 18—(UP)—Failure of Buckeye conference schools to send fully authorized representatives to a special executive session, today resulted in a delay on the admission of a new member or members of the 13 year old athletic circuit.

At a meeting here last night, it was voted to take official action on the membership proposals at a sessions scheduled for May 27-28 at Athens.

George Gauthier, Ohio Wesleyan athletic director and secretary of the Buckeye, reported three schools seek admissions to the league. They are Xavier University of Cincinnati; Butler University of Indianapolis, Ind.; and Western State Teachers college of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Each will be voted upon separately at the May meeting. One or all may be admitted. It was considered most probable the first berth would go to Xavier.

The Buckeye will have a vacancy in its ranks in June when the resignation of the University of Cincinnati becomes effective.

Xavier was represented here by its athletic director, Clem Crowe. Home Dunham, athletic director; and Mike Gary, football coach, represented Western State. Butler did not send a delegate. Athletic directors of Buckeye schools discussed the possibility of sponsoring 150 pound football teams, but no action was taken.

Flying Blind

In thick weather, it is often necessary for airplanes to "fly blind" . . . to depend on instruments rather than vision and charter landmarks. Almost uncanny in their accuracy, such instruments are nevertheless second choice in the navigation of the air.

Shoppers who trot off down-town to the stores without first consulting the advertisements of those same stores are likewise flying blind. And needlessly so. The advertisements in this paper are put here for your guidance, for your safe landing in the Ports of Value.

Study them in the comfort of your home . . . map your course before you put on your hat and drop the latch-key into your handbag. Compare the products offered, their general advantages. Then set out on your shopping-trip prepared for what you will see, what you will wish to have sent home.

Let the advertisements serve as guiding beacons of buying. It's the smart thing to do.

Today's Recipes

CHICKEN LOAF—One cup chicken, either canned or leftover from roast chicken; one can condensed chicken soup; one and one-half cups soft bread crumbs, one tablespoon pimento, chopped; one-half teaspoon salt, two eggs. Strain rice, celery and chicken from the canned soup. Combine them with the chicken and put through the food chopper, using the small blade. Then mix this chicken mixture with the soft bread crumbs, chicken consommé from soup, chopped pimento, chopped parsley, salt and eggs. Put into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 45-60 minutes or until firm. Turn out on a platter and garnish with grilled apricots. Serves four or five. If it is desired the loaf be quite stiff when serving, add one more egg to it.

DATE COTTAGE CHEESE PIE—One baked pastry shell, two egg yolks, one-third cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, one fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two egg whites, one cup thin cream or rich milk, one and one-half cups (three-fourths pound) cottage cheese, one cup (one-half package) sliced dates, grated rind of one-half lemon, two tablespoons finely chopped nuts. Beat egg yolks; add sugar, spices, salt and milk. Add the cheese which has been mashed with a fork or rubbed through a coarse sieve and the dates, which have been cut in pieces with wet scissors. Mix well. Fold in the grated lemon rind and the egg whites. Pour the mixture into a baked pastry shell and sprinkle the nut meats over the top. Bake in a very moderate oven (325 degrees F.) until the custard will not adhere to a silver knife inserted in the center (30 to 40 minutes). Serve very cold. Will serve six.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE—Two egg yolks, one-third teaspoon salt, dash paprika, one-third cup boiling water, two tablespoons lemon juice, one-third cup salad oil or four tablespoons butter. Beat egg yolks slightly and add all but lemon juice. Cook until thickened. Take from fire and add lemon.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

DON'T INTERFERE

WHEN YOUR opponents have terrifically misbid a hand and are about to wind up with a contract in the worst suit they could pick, don't interfere. Let them stay in trouble. A double will only scare them out of a suit you like into one they will like. Ordinarily a good rule is not to make a penalty double of one suit unless you would welcome a chance to double anything they may thereafter select as a refuge.

North for his decision. North now decided to show his void in diamonds with a bid of four, and South being unable to read North's holdings, decided with his fit in that suit, his lack of heart support and North's failure to support spades, to let the contract stay there.

West, who was delighted with this contract, eagerly passed, figuring that if he doubled North would go back to his hearts. There was nothing North could do about it at that point. South, of course, should have realized that North with two heart bids was not afraid of that suit, and have taken the contract to 4-Hearts.

How should South attempt to make his contract of 4-Hearts, the spade 9 being led to East's Q and a switch made to the diamond 9?

This deal arose in a rubber game and the North-South pair did some fancy bidding that landed them in a disastrous contract. North started off with 1-Heart, East passed, South bid 1-Spade, West passed and North jumped to 3-Hearts. South rebid his spades at the three level and North called 4-Clubs. East doubled this and South decided to pass this up to

CITY MOVES TOWARD APRIL 26 BALLOT ON STREET LIGHTING CONTRACT

COUNCIL CLERK TO MAIL FACTS ABOUT CONTEST

Notices Provided For All Who Cast Ballots In Last Election

Fred R. Nicholas, clerk of council, hopes to have the notices on the city's special election to be held April 26 in the mails by Saturday night.

The special election, first in Circleville's history, will be on the street-lighting contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Notices will be sent to all who voted at the last municipal election. Mr. Nicholas obtained 3,200 notices. Ballot books show there were 3,120 voters registered at the last election. Printing of the notices was completed Thursday afternoon.

City council passed the 10-year street-lighting ordinance on Nov. 29, 1937. It was approved by William J. Graham, former mayor, on Dec. 9, 1937. On Dec. 28, a referendum petition was filed against the contract. Council passed an ordinance on Jan. 19 to submit the issue to voters. The ordinance was approved immediately by Mayor W. E. Cady.

Four In Each Precinct

The special election will be held between 6:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Since there are no candidates involved the board of elections has reduced the number of workers to four in each precinct instead of six. Two will be judges and two will be clerks. The salary will be $5 instead of the usual $8 for a general election. The issue is decided by a majority vote.

The question to be submitted to voters is "Shall ordinance No. 971 passed by the council of the City of Circleville on the 29th day of November, 1937, providing for a ten-year contract between the City of Circleville and the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company covering rates to be charged for lighting the streets, alleys, lanes, and other public places and structures in the City of Circleville, on the following basis: 100 C. P. Silvray processed, or equivalent, series incandescent lamps at $22 per lamp per annum; 250 C. P. Silvray processed, or equivalent, series incandescent lamps at $35.50 per lamp per annum, and 400 C. P. ornamental boulevard series incandescent lamps at $45 per lamp per annum, and further providing for installation of a system of boulevard lights which are to remain the property of said Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, be approved by the electors of the City of Circleville and take full force and effect as provided by law?"

Similar to Hillsboro

The contract provides for 60 boulevard lights in the downtown district. They would be installed on selected wood piles. The system would be similar to the type used in Hillsboro.

The contract with the utility for residence and commercial lighting, passed last Summer by council, is now involved in court after the utility obtained an injunction against city officials taking steps to put that issue before voters.

Notices of the special election give a brief history of the contract, the question to be submitted to voters, a copy of the ordinance on the contract, the "body" of the referendum petition, affidavits of those who solicited signatures, and the ordinance to place the issue before voters.

TEXAS YOUTH, 7 RESCUED FROM DEATH IN WELL

CENTER, Tex., March 18 —

(UP) — Seven-year old Bryant Rowland told officers today that his mother tied his hands behind him with a towel, threw him into a well, and then jumped in the well. The mother, Mrs. Jane Rowland, 40, was drowned.

Bryant was rescued from the well by Tom Sample, son of Sheriff J. B. Sample.

He kept his head above water by climbing up on his mother's body after he saw that she was dead.

The tragedy was the second in 24 hours involving mothers and their children in this community. Wednesday night Mrs. Lillie Mae Curtis, killed her seven children goodnight, waited with a gun across her knee until they were asleep, then shot six of them. She spared the eldest, a 15 year old boy because, she said, he was able to work and "get along." She said that the children were better off dead because she had no money.

Bryant Rowland was taken out of the well after being in the water almost three hours.

BALKAN NATIONS NEAR WAR OVER BORDER CRISIS

Note Demands Reopening Of Question Concerning Vilna's Ownership

lums past the house where Rydz-Smigly was quartered.

They sang the national anthem and chanted:

"Marshal, Lead Us On to Kovno."

A great mass meeting was called in the main square.

Early Reply Awaited

It was understood here that the government expects a reply by tonight to the ultimatum which it sent to the Lithuanian government.

(Lithuanian reports were that the ultimatum expires Saturday night. The Polish government refused to say what its time limit was.)

Political quarters expressed conviction that Lithuania would accede to the government's demands, sent through the Estonian government.

Officials refused to mention the time limit named in what was, admittedly, an ultimatum. Reports that a limit of 36 hours had been named were denied. But it was intimated that a reply was expected before midnight.

The Polish demands, included 1) restoration of diplomatic relations;

2) Resumption of normal traffic across the frontier and 3) recognition of Vilna and its environs as Polish territory.

(Poland and Lithuania have not had diplomatic relations for many years, and the frontier has been kept closed.)

It was admitted that Poland had used in its note to Lithuania, drastic measures surpassing normal diplomatic procedure. But it was argued that nothing less could have had the desired effect. Government quarters refused to say what course the cabinet would adopt if Lithuania's reply was unsatisfactory, but it was believed there might be a clarifying communication today. For the present there was no mention of mobilization.

A communication was issued at 1:30 a. m. today announcing the ultimatum:

"A Polish note was handed to the Lithuanian government at Kovno (Kaunas) at 9 p. m. containing the well known Polish demands. A time was specified within which the Polish government expected an answer."

Tension Decreases

The immediate effect of the communication was not to increase tension but to decrease it. Throughout the evening there had been angry demonstrations here and in the provinces, led by members of the government-controlled war veterans' association, demanding drastic action. As soon as the crowds learned of the ultimatum, they dispersed quietly.

It was understood that the government told interested powers yesterday that for 20 years all normal methods had proved powerless to induce Lithuania to restore diplomatic relations and that it was felt "energetic measures" were necessary.

It was recalled that mediation by the League of Nations proved unsuccessful in 1927. At that time the late Marshal Josef Pilsudski went personally to Geneva and, confronting Lithuanian delegates, demanded that they say whether they wanted war or peace. They elected for peace and negotiations were started. But they proved fruitless.

BIDS TO BE RECEIVED

Bids will be received up to 2 p. m. next Friday on the $15,000 note issue for additional funds for the disposal plant. Notes are being issued in anticipation of a bond issue.

I don't think an actor's necessarily conceited just because he hires a publicity man to write nice things about him. Pret' near everybody likes to hear nice things said about himself.

One time down home, our worst citizen was arrested for stealin' hogs. When the trial came up, he told the judge he wanted a lawyer to defend him. The judge said "Well, you were caught red-handed and you've already confessed the crime. I can't imagine anything a lawyer could say in your behalf."

The prisoner said "I don't either, Judge—that's what I'm curious to hear."

RAIDING PLANES POUR LEAFLETS, BOMBS ON CITY

Death Toll In Big Loyalist Stronghold Mounting As Attacks Continue

and all activity was concentrated on caring for the dead and wounded.

Rescue workers, feverishly looking for the dead and wounded of the previous bombings in the shattered buildings, scurried to safety as today's planes dropped their heavy explosives.

The bombers yesterday, their numbers varying for each raid, flew so high that their presence was not known until their bombs dropped. Sometimes they came in group formation from one direction, but at other times they flew over from opposite sides.

All Buildings Pounded

Apartment houses, hotels, buses, street cars, factories and homes were pounded to pieces. Those inside, if not blown to pieces, were crushed by falling debris or by the force of the concussion.

Many of the bombs, weighing hundreds of pounds, crashed through the roofs of six and seven story buildings and bit their way through the floors to explode in the cellars, wrecking the buildings.

Several foreign residents were believed among the casualties.

Red Cross workers, extricating dead and injured, blocked off the areas in which they were working with wide bands of black crepe.

Police and other rescue workers were sickened by what they found in the debris. Many collapsed and had to be relieved. Ambulance sirens created a steady din as they piled up and down the boulevards. Flames still licked at the shattered walls of some buildings.

STYER'S DIVORCE

Mrs. Stella M. Styer, Town street, filed suit Thursday in Common Pleas court for divorce, alimony and custody of four children from Harry M. Styer. Her suit charges cruelty and neglect. They were married Aug. 12, 1908. An order was allowed restraining the defendant from interfering with his wife or children.

RACCOON RECEIVED

Six raccoon, received from the state conservation department, were released in Circleville, Walnut and Harrison townships. Clarence Francis, conservation officer, said they were received from the state game farm at Milan.

NAZIS DISCOVER ARMS SUPPLIES IN MONASTERY

MOEDLING, Austria, March 18. —(UP)—Arms were reported discovered today in the Gabriel monastery, Austria's largest institution for education of missionaries, near Moedling.

The monastery is operated by the order of the Divine Word.

Meanwhile, in Moedling, Josef Lobaschek, former clerical mayor, was forced to spend the day removing posters bearing the likeness of former Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

Numerous high employees, both Jews and Gentiles, of the Creditanstalt, Austria's largest bank, were arrested today in connection with financing of the heimwehr, it was reported.

TABLES TURNED ON TACK TRICKSTER WHO SUFFERS

LOS ANGELES, March 18 —

(UP)—Ten-year-old Clyde Bootan had two tacks at school. One he placed on a neighboring pupil's seat and the other he hid in his mouth because the teacher called him to her desk.

Back at his seat, Clyde discovered—the hard way—that his neighbor had returned the tack. In his surprise and shock, he swallowed the auxiliary tack.

At Children's hospital Clyde was placed on a diet of cotton and spinach.
